

Introducing TLG MIQs

Quarterly Asia Pacific Market Intelligence Services (MIQ)

The Analysis of Power Meets the Power of Analysis

We focus on the Asia Pacific (APAC) power sector. Our quarterly service tracks and analyses market developments and provides market outlooks across multiple scenarios, with data access. Our clients include governments, regulators, commercial developers/financiers, market institutions, and end-users.

Our clients benefit from our experience and expertise across many seminal APAC projects spanning three decades of advising on electricity market development, market design, sector regulation, end-user and grid tariffs, third-party access, energy sector public policy, high stakes commercial transactions, contract disputes, and the development of carbon-free energy markets and solutions. Each quarter we update our market simulations and outlooks, supplemented with periodic deep dives on salient issues depending on each market, including topics such as demand growth drivers and trends, grid performance, ancillary services opportunities, tariff decomposition, prospective battery integration and more. We also provide engagement sessions for our clients to talk directly with our consulting teams.

We update and distribute our subscription services quarterly. We provide corresponding datasets covering key recurring analyses and market forecasts are provided in Excel format. The precise schedule for each market publication is within its own target window, with some offered on a staggered basis to manage internal workflows. We provide the schedule for each market of interest separately. Each market report comes with reasonable consultation with TLG's country team of market experts to allow for reasonable discussion and Q&A around key market development as well as to allow for any clarification on the quarterly market report content.
